I think it is a good thing to call the attention of the general profession to this matter. The more conscientious of the internists will realize the value of surgical exploration for diagnostic purposes in such doubtful cases. Dr. Geo. Childs MacDonald: I believe what Dr. Huntington has said is true. I certainly think that incision should be made earlier. Early incisions do not do any harm, but if the case is put off until the man is nearly gone, the end will probably have been hastened. I have opened several abdomens in which I have found cancer where it not only involved the stomach, but also the transverse colon. In these cases there was very little to be felt from the outside, or any indication that the disease was so extensive as it proved to be....
